POISONOUS GAS IS AGAIN USED

Enemy Makes Vain Efforts to Break Through Allies' Lines by Employment of Barbarous Device.

BRITISH INFLICT SEVERE LOSSES

Another Costly Attack Made on Hill No. 60—French Bombarding Southern Fortifications of Metz.

PARIS, May 3.—The following official statement was issued by the War Office tonight:
"There is nothing to report except the repulse of two German attacks last night—one against the British troops to the north of Ypres, and the other against the French troops in the forest of Lepretre."
An earlier report said:
"The Germans yesterday made two attacks with asphyxiating gases. One was at the north of Ypres, near St. Julien, and the other was to the south of Ypres, near Hill No. 60. Neither one accomplished anything."
"There is nothing to report from the rest of the front."
Hill No. 60 Again
LONDON, May 3.—This was given out today a British official statement, dated May 3 and reads as follows:
"At 7 p.m., on May 1 the Germans attacked Hill No. 60, southeast of Ypres, and yesterday evening they attacked in the neighborhood of St. Julien. These attacks were repulsed. We lost no ground and we inflicted heavy losses on the enemy, in spite of the fact that he again used poisoned gases, emitted both from tubes in the trenches and from specially-manufactured shells."
A German aeroplane yesterday afternoon was chased by one of our machines to within rifle range of our trenches, and then brought down by our fire."
At Eastern Points
PARIS, May 3.—Yesterday's official report said:
"In the valley of the Aisne and in Champagne the enemy employed during the course of the day divers devices, which, however, were without effect. Near Tracy le Mont, gas tubes which threw off in breaking the odor of ether, were used; between Rheims and the Argonne, bombs charged with inflammable materials were used, and finally gases emitting a greenish smoke which rose over the lines of the enemy without reaching ours."
"In the forest of Le Pretre the Germans essayed a counter-attack, but were not able to debouch. We are holding all of our gains of yesterday."
"We continued during the day to bombard the front to the south of the entrenched camp of Metz. The efficacy of our fire on one of these forts is undoubted, as well as on the barracks and the railway nearby."

ALLIES ADVANCE AT DARDANELLES

Press Dispatches State That Mardos and All Outer Forts on Straits Have Been Taken—No Confirmation.

LARGE FORCES OF TURKS ARE Routed

Most Vital Points of Enemy's Defences Invested and Inner Forts Steadily Bombed—Battalion Captured.

LONDON, May 3.—Various special dispatches from Mitylene reaching London by way of Athens say that the Allies have occupied Mardos, on the Dardanelles, twenty-two miles south of the town of Gallipoli. The British Admiralty has as yet made no comment on the reports.
A special to The Daily Telegraph from its Athens correspondent says:
"According to information from Mitylene, the British have driven the Turks out of all outer forts of the Dardanelles, and the British flag is now waving over the captured positions."
"Large forces of Turks have been routed and are retiring on Hadyotis, where a desperate battle is raging. Other bodies of Turks are falling back towards Thrace. An entire Turkish battalion was surrounded by the Allies and the men taken prisoners. The fleet continues to bombard the inner forts, the reply of which is weakening."
"The Turks at Smyrna are awaiting another attack on the town by the Allies."
LONDON, May 3.—A Tenedos dispatch to The Daily News under Monday's date says:
"Fierce fighting continues day and night in the Dardanelles. The ships of the fleet are working in shifts, and the bombardment is incessant. In spite of desperate resistance we have made steady progress, both on land and sea. The most vital points of the enemy's defences now are strongly invested."
A dispatch from Athens dated on Sunday to The Daily News says it has learned from reliable sources that 6,000 wounded Turks have been sent from Gallipoli to Constantinople, while four large transports loaded with German reinforcements have been sent to the Dardanelles.
This War Will Last Year
LONDON, May 3.—The Daily News says that the budget statement of Chancellor Lloyd George will be introduced in the House of Commons on Tuesday. It will be a provisional budget, based on the assumption that the war will last throughout the financial year 1915-16. The assumption that the war will be a long one has been for some time made by the cooler observers. The British financial year ends on March 31, and the financial budget estimates will apparently be based on the assumption that the war will last at least until March 31, 1916.

Member of 88th Fusiliers Left for Front With First Contingent—Other Victorians Are Wounded.

Private Philip Brackenbury Nation, reported killed in action, was well known in this city, and previous to his departure for the front with the First Canadian Contingent, made his residence at Oak Bay, for some two years. He was born in England twenty-nine years ago, and received his education at Bedford Grammar School, subsequently taking a course in Germany. He came to Canada in December, 1911, coming direct to Victoria. He joined the Mer-

YOU can't deceive a man as to "Highland Cream." Its distinctive qualities stand up above all ordinary brands, so that once having caught that real "Scotch tang" which soothes the palate like a breath from the heather-clad hills in the auld land, it's "Teacher's or nothing" every time.

Highland Cream is on draught from the wood, in all hotels and bars. When you "line up" the next time, just say "Teacher's" and be assured of getting the best.

LIBERAL POLICY OF GOVERNMENT

Minister of Public Works Criticizes Tactics of Opposition and Says Election Would Be Justified.

MONTREAL, May 3.—The Hon. Robert Rogers, in his speech to the Liberal-Conservative Club today, said: "Mr. President and Gentlemen: Permit me to acknowledge the compliment implied by the presence here today of such a large number of leading representatives of our two great races, and after all it is only an additional evidence of your appreciation of that grand old traditional policy for which the Conservative party has ever stood, that of unity of purpose among the two races of our common country. We, of this day and hour, are the proud heirs and joint heirs of all that long line of brilliant achievements that have made Canada what it is today. No Prime Minister in Canada ever had placed upon his shoulders the heavy responsibility that our leader, Sir Robert Borden, has been called upon to carry, no Prime Minister could have carried these responsibilities with greater dignity and a greater consideration for his lasting duty to Canada and to the British Empire, and no Prime Minister has ever been called upon to meet such cowardly and dishonest misrepresentations on the part of his opponents as has Sir Robert. But those vicious and organized attacks as made from day today are not going to deter Sir Robert and his colleagues from carrying out the greatest task that has ever fallen to the lot of any government to deal with. In the carrying out of this great work, I am confident that the old Province of Quebec will remain true to your great traditions of the past."

Fortunate in Leaders
The Canadian people were fortunate to have had a Sir John A. Macdonald to perform the great task of confederation with its British connections, and the Canadian people were still more fortunate today in this great time of trial and test to have a Sir Robert Borden to perform the still greater task that today confronts the Canadian people. I am sure that I only tell you that which you all well know when I say that no man living ever devoted more earnestly and more honestly to his country the great energy and the great ability which God has given him than has Sir Robert Borden from the day he was honored with his present mandate from the citizens of Canada. During that period he has honestly and honorably discharged the greatest responsibilities that have ever fallen to the lot of any public man in Canada. But the fact that he has so honestly and so honorably discharged these great responsibilities, especially means nothing to a certain host of designing Grit grafters and simpatientes—grafters that are strong and powerful by reason of the wide scope given them in their field of operation during the fifteen years of Liberal reign. For example, who will deny the strength of the press of Canada today that represents Grit grafting, Grit loot and Grit plunder, a great deal in its desperation descends to the very lowest possible level? And when I make this statement, I frankly admit that I am thinking of The Montreal Herald, The Toronto Globe and The Winnipeg Free Press, all papers that have prospered in one form or another by the purchase and sale of influence with Liberal leaders, by the purchase and sale of Liberal principles, or by pure and unadorned graft during the reign of the late administration. It is to be expected that a press of this ignoble type will oppose the present Government for reasons that are obvious no matter what they do.

Preferred Aid to Mother Country
When the present Government took office they were pledged to the Canadian people to adopt a policy that would have for its purpose the binding in closer bonds of union our Dominion with the Mother Country. With this purpose in view Sir Robert and several of his colleagues at the first available opportunity proceeded to England to consult with the Government of Great Britain and the Admiralty as to what means could best be employed to give effect to such a policy. They returned with a distinct and definite answer which is within the common knowledge of all. When our proposals for the carrying out of this policy were presented to Parliament they were received with general approval by Canada everywhere, excepting the present opposition in Parliament and the press which I have just described. The opposition and the press, with the aid of an irresponsible majority in the Senate, prevented the Government, as representing the free will of the Canadian people, from giving effect to that policy, which, if we had been able to carry through, would have meant much in the solemn hour, not alone to Canada, but to the British Empire as well. The defeat of our proposals, which simply meant wise and sound preparation for the then imminent Day of Armageddon, was brought about by the combination I have just named. We were challenged in season and out of season by this same combination to submit the matter to the country, and it is an open secret that Sir Robert Borden had decided to appeal to the people in September last, fully realizing that our proposals to cooperate in binding in closer bonds of union our Dominion with the Mother Country would meet with an overwhelming approval from Canadians everywhere. We did not believe then, and we do not believe now, that the policy of the opposition and the press, who during their fifteen years of power opposed every move and every proposal that was designed to bind in closer union our great Dominion with the Mother Country (as the long line of reports of the Imperial conferences held between 1897 and 1911 will prove) would find much sympathy or much support among the Canadian people.

Responsible Majority
Not only that, but under our law and under our constitution we had the right, as a Government, to recommend additional appointments to the Upper Chamber, but the irresponsible majority of that chamber today go the length and actually refuse to recognize the law and the constitution and prevent the Government from making those appointments for the only purpose of retaining their control through which they are absolute master of the situation. Now let me say, is it fair to the Government, is it fair to the Canadian people, is it fair to the Empire under the present trying conditions that a Government, elected by the free will of the people, should be asked to remain handicapped in having their proposals defeated at the will of this irresponsible majority in the Senate? Some people say it would not be patriotic to carry out an election during the war. Let me ask such an individual this question: "Which would be the most patriotic, to dissolve the Parliament and have full and complete control, which any Government must have if they are going to render that full service to Canada, and above all do our full duty by our gallant troops and those dependent upon them, that should and must be expected from the Government of our country in the great crisis of this hour, or to remain as we are, handicapped and crippled and interfered with at every turn, tarrying and disputing with an opposition that has not only already refused us their support but has declared by their votes and by their vote a want of confidence in our proposals for the providing of the necessary means that up in the present have been estimated as necessary for the carrying on of our part in this great conflict, and in view of our recent deplorable and heavy losses, it is evident that renewed and greater efforts have yet to be made?"

Why an Election?
This provides serious thought for reflection on the part of every patriotic citizen of Canada, as to what our best course is to average the loss of our noble lives as we are, handicapped and crippled, or to carry out an election, and in view of our recent deplorable and heavy losses, it is evident that renewed and greater efforts have yet to be made?"

responsibility would have governed the attitude of the present opposition and their press. It is true, for a time they were temporarily silent, nursing in shame their remorse of conscience for their conduct of the year previous, through which they were obliged to witness their own most ignoble downfall in the eyes of every good citizen, and for months and months they were treated by the Government and by the people generally with that reverence and respect that is always due to a political corpse. During all this period the Government remained steadfast in its discharge of the great responsibility determined and fearlessly. We recognized that Canada was British to the core, and we believed then, as we believe now, that the Canadian people would endorse our action in taking every step necessary to aid in the protection of that Empire and in securing victory for her flag.

Prompt in Assistance
We recognized that assistance promptly given was doubly valuable, hence we acted without delay, and no sooner had the war begun than Canada, through her Prime Minister, served notice upon the world that so far as the ties which bound her to the Empire were concerned they were stronger than ever before. Where is the citizen today that is not proud to be able to tell that we were the first colony to offer assistance, and while the Canadian Government served notice, the people in their enthusiastic support of the Government served notice, the young men of Canada, who, by the thousands have volunteered for service at the front, have served notice, that Canada is with the Empire. And, gentlemen, these notices contain the clause of the share and Canada's large part in this great struggle will not be finished until the last shot in the war has been fired and until the last principle for which Great Britain and France stand has been gained. That was the position then taken by the Government. We stand by that position today. We have endeavored to carry out all these great responsibilities in a manner worthy of the citizen people. Mistakes may have, and undoubtedly have been made, but, gentlemen, where in the public life of Canada have those responsible for such mistakes ever before paid such a penalty for their mistakes as that imposed by Sir Robert Borden during the last day of the session. This, as all other matters, has been dealt with by Sir Robert with a strong determination that the public welfare must, shall and will be protected. We recognize the very grave, and the very heavy responsibilities the end of which we can yet foresee, and believe that we had the confidence and the support of the Canadian people everywhere in sending forward and mobilizing at home over 100,000 of our gallant sons, who so generously have offered their lives as defenders of their flag and their country. This great work cannot be undertaken and carried through without placing upon the shoulders of the people heavy burdens and heavy responsibilities.

Ready for Borden
The Government believes that the Canadian people are prepared to assume these responsibilities, hence our proposals to meet the requirements during the last session. These proposals were divided into two parts: First, that we should borrow $100,000,000, and second, that we should raise under our accustomed forms of taxation an estimated amount of about $200,000,000. This last proposal met with strenuous and determined opposition at the hands of our opponents in Parliament as well as at the hands of the Liberal press. In view of our past experience with our naval proposals of 1913, when we discovered that under our form of government it was possible for an irresponsible majority of the Senate to defeat, as they did then, the will of the Canadian people as represented in the House of Commons, is it not wonderful that the Government, being charged with those great responsibilities, answerable for the carrying out of the greatest task ever imposed on public man in Canada, should feel the danger of their position? And mark you, I do not mean by this their political position, but I mean the position of the Canadian people that want to take their proper place in the great struggle of the day. This war cannot be carried to a successful conclusion without money and without means, yet the Opposition declares by its vote and votes that we must not have this money, and moves a vote of want of confidence in the Government for asking it. And from that hour down until the present the Government has been subjected to the most dishonorable misrepresentation through the Liberal press that has ever been seen in Canada.

GERMANS LOSE TORPEDO BOATS
Two sunk in Action Off Holland Coast by British Flotilla—Submarine Sinks British Destroyer.

LONDON, May 3.—The British Admiralty today had latest evening that two German torpedo boats had been sunk in the North Sea. The British torpedo boat destroyer Recruit also was sunk.

The text of the Admiralty's Statement was as follows: "A series of small affairs took place in the neighborhood of the Galloper and North Hinder lightships on Saturday. "During the forenoon His Majesty's destroyer Recruit was sunk by a submarine, four officers and twenty-one men being saved by the other destroyers. "At 2 p. m. the trawler Colombia was attacked by two German torpedo boats, which approached her from the westward and commenced an action without hoisting their colors. The Colombia was sunk by a torpedo, only one deckhand being saved by the other destroyers. "A division of British destroyers, comprising the Laforey, Leanda, Lawford and Lark, chased the two German vessels, and, after a brief running fight of about one hour, sank them both. "The British destroyers sustained no casualties. "Two German officers and forty-four men were rescued from the sea and made prisoners of war."

ment. For example, that the Government of Great Britain receive from the Opposition and the House of Lords there would undoubtedly be no occasion for any mention of an election; but you have only to look at the record of the last session and read the Liberal press to learn and understand that this is not the case. In answer to this, what Mr. Heaven could be said that has not already been said by the Liberal press in Canada that could create greater strife and division than that which their actions from day to day are creating. For we have appearing daily the most venomous, the most contemptible, and the most untruthful misrepresentations that have ever been published in any part of the civilized world. The unfortunate part is that evidently some simple-minded, innocent people read these statements and believe them to be true, as is evidenced by the fact that a few clergymen, but fortunately very few in number, through want of knowledge, are simple-minded enough to venture to re-echo from their pulpits some of the misrepresentations being published from day to day in the Grit press. It might be well for those individuals to better study and understand the true conditions before undertaking to enter upon a discussion of public affairs, for if they have no better information of their Bible and its teachings than they appear to have when they undertake to discuss public questions, all I can say is that they are a heavy burden upon the souls of the unfortunate people that depend upon such individuals for spiritual instruction and direction.

Soldiers' Voice
Then we have the memorable attitude of the Opposition on the Bill introduced by Judge Doherty to provide that any of our soldiers who so wish could have the right to exercise their franchise. One would have thought that if ever any bill introduced to Parliament would receive hearty and unanimous support it would have been this one; but we were called upon to witness before the world the humiliating spectacle of the Opposition offering the most fierce objections to this measure in the House of Commons, and it was finally so mutilated by the irresponsible majority in the Senate that it is practically unworkable. Who would have believed that the Opposition could have been guilty of opposing this measure on the ground that the man who has volunteered to serve his country should cease to be a citizen, or in other words, that a man's willingness to fight for the very existence of his country should disqualify him from voting. They argued that the citizen who leaves his home, gives up his job, goes into training, and faces death for the love of his country should be deprived of the right to say how that country should be governed. In view of this, who will dare to say that the Opposition and their press are not exploiting our unfortunate war conditions for party advantage? What else did the opposition to this bill mean? They well know that out of every 100 men that have volunteered, and who now fully realize the great value to Canada of Sir Robert Borden's policy for closer British connections, would cast their ballots in favor of such a policy, and because of this they exercised every means that they had, and succeeded fairly well, to mutilate this bill as to make it almost of no value. The Government took the position that the man who would put his life at the service of his country to fight for our liberty and freedom, to fight for our greatest possessions, that of our British citizenship and membership in the great British Empire, is the man above all others who should have the right to say how his country should be governed, and I am sure that the stand so taken by the Government will meet with the approval of every good, loyal citizen of Canada."

SUBMARINES GET MANY VICTIMS

Men of Swedish Crew Say Their Vessel Was Sunk by U-29—French, British and Neutral Boats Destroyed.

LEITH, Scotland, May 4.—The crew of five men of the Swedish schooner Hilda have been landed here. Their vessel, they say, was destroyed by the German submarine U-29 on Sunday morning.

The Hilda, with a cargo of wood, was bound from Holstad to Granton, and was overtaken by the submarine 100 miles west of May Island. The crew say they were given five minutes to quit the vessel, which the Germans then set on fire.

The crew was picked up by the steamer Fernbo.

Several Sunk

LONDON, May 3.—The French steamship Europe, from Derry for St. Nazaire, with a cargo of coal, was torpedoed by a German submarine on Saturday morning near Bishop's Rock and sunk, says a dispatch to Lloyd's from Penzance. The crew was rescued by a steam drifter.

The British steamship Fulgent was sunk by a German submarine north-west of the Skellig rocks in the dark of Saturday morning, says a dispatch to Lloyd's from Killybegs, Ireland. A boat containing nine survivors and the body of the captain of the steamship, who had been shot and killed, was picked up by a trawler and the survivors landed at Killybegs. The trawler was unable to find the second boat of the Fulgent containing the remainder of the crew.

The Exchange Telegraph Company has received a dispatch from its correspondent at Copenhagen saying that the Swedish steamship Elida, timber-laden, from Helsingfors for Hull, was torpedoed in the North Sea by a German submarine. She went to the bottom in less than three minutes.

The sixteen men and two women on board had barely time to escape in one of the boats. After cruising about for two hours they were picked up by a Danish schooner and landed at Lemvig, Denmark.

Trawler Sunk

YARMOUTH, May 3.—The trawler Jarboes arrived here in a damaged condition as the result of an encounter with a German torpedo boat off the British coast on Saturday. The captain of the trawler was wounded in the foot, but the rest of the crew escaped uninjured.

The Barbados reports that the trawler Colombia was torpedoed and sunk with seven men on board. One survivor and one German black-jacket who had fallen overboard were brought to Yarmouth by the Barbados.

The Barbados defended herself against the torpedo boat with two small guns, and the captain says the German was evidently hit, as steam was seen coming from her. The wheelhouse and funnel of the Barbados were riddled with shot.

ABERDEEN, Scotland, May 3.—Trawlers making port today declare that a German submarine sank two trawlers within fifty miles of Aberdeen on Sunday.

The crews of the two vessels, it is believed, lost their lives.

It would appear as though the submarine ran amuck under the Aberdeen fishing fleet. In addition to sending the two to the bottom it chased three others for twenty miles. A patrol boat then was seen approaching, whereupon the submarine submerged.

NORTH SHIELDS, Eng., May 3.—The British trawler Sun Ray was torpedoed by a German submarine 60 miles north-east of Tyne on Sunday. The crew was saved.

Neutral Destroyed

NEWCASTLE, Eng., May 3.—The Norwegian steamship Anitra was torpedoed in the North Sea on Saturday. The vessel sank within two hours.

The crew of the Anitra, consisting of thirty-nine men, was picked up thirteen hours later by the Norwegian mail boat Stirling and was landed at Newcastle today.

The America left Sunderland on Saturday morning for Bergen.

COPENHAGEN, May 3.—The Norwegian steamship Laila was sunk in the North Sea on Friday by a German submarine. Her crew was landed at Copenhagen today by the steamship Anna, which witnessed the sinking, and, at the request of the German submarine, took the crew of the Laila aboard.

LONDON, May 3.—The Norwegian steamship Baldwin was sunk by a German submarine in the North Sea on Sunday. The crew, numbering seventeen men, were allowed to take to their boats. They landed at Leith today. Nine shots were fired into the Baldwin before she went down.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC

Additional Trains and Best Service to Be Provided to Handle Increasing Tourist Traffic

EDMONTON, May 3.—To handle the increasing tourist traffic between Edmonton and the Coast, another through train to Prince Rupert will be added after June 1. This will give a tri-weekly service between Edmonton and the Pacific Coast. Best service between Prince Rupert and Vancouver and Seattle will be increased to boat connections for each train. This announcement was made by W. H. Hunter, assistant passenger traffic manager of the G. T. P. and Grand Trunk system, who reached Edmonton today on route home after a visit to the world's fair at San Francisco. Passenger traffic between Edmonton and the Coast is increasing steadily, and Mr. Hunter, the line opens up a world of magnificent scenery that is a ready attraction to tourists.

Mr. Hunter was greatly impressed with the magnitude and potentialities of the fish industry at Prince Rupert. Last year's catch was in the neighborhood of 15,000,000 pounds of halibut, in addition to a big catch of salmon, black cod and sole. This year, the catch at Prince Rupert is expected to reach 1,000,000 tons of salmon. The new fishing regulations, permitting American fishermen to ship in bond from Prince Rupert to Seattle in the United States, is bringing Canadian railways a great deal of business.

The Canadian building at the world's fair, Mr. Hunter said, is attracting the greatest interest and attention, and is one of the finest exhibits of its kind on the grounds.

General Botha's Forces Capture Another Important Post in Southwest Africa West of Swakopmund

CAPE TOWN, May 4.—An official statement issued here last night says that General Botha's Union of South Africa troops on Sunday captured Otymbingue, an important post 100 miles east of Swakopmund, German Southwest Africa.

The British losses were only eight killed. Five of these men lost their lives in the explosion of a mine during the advance up the Swakop River.

ALL DEAD OR WOUNDED

Story of Machine Gun Detachment at Tyne Battle Who Kept Their Weapons at Work on Enemy

LONDON, May 3.—In a British eyewitness story of the latest stages of the battle of Tyne mention is made of a machine gun detachment who kept their gun in action until all were dead or wounded.

The gun was stationed in an angle of the trench," says the eye-witness. "When the German rush took place one man after another of the detachment was shot, but the gun still continued in action, although five bodies lay around it. When the sixth man took the place of his fallen comrade, of whom one was his brother, the Germans still pressing on, he waited until they were only a few yards away and then poured a stream of bullets on the advancing ranks, which broke and fell back, leaving rows of dead. He was then wounded himself."

Russians and Teutonic Forces Clash From Niemen to Galicia—Austrians Report Gaining Great Victory.

PETROGRAD, May 3.—The following official communication was issued this evening:

"West of the Niemen on May 2 the engagement continues along the Upper reaches of the River Sogupa. On the evening of May 1 a battalion of the enemy attacked the village of Bosnia, near Osovoets, but was dispersed by the fire from the forts.

"On the Bura River important skirmishes occurred near the village of Mitrovitsa.

"Since the evening of May 1, from the Lower Nida to the Carpathians in the region of Gladychef, an action of the greatest intensity developed. On the left bank of the Vistula on the night of the 2nd, we repulsed strong enemy attacks.

"In the region of Tarnow and further southward, the artillery fire attained great violence and three isolated combats took place.

"In the direction of Stry and South-east of Golouetko we captured Mount Kaukava and took 300 prisoners, including ten officers.

"On the Danube on May 1, near Galenzyky, the enemy made two fruitless attacks.

"On the first our Black Sea Fleet bombarded the forts of the Bosphorus. The fire was very efficacious, and caused great explosions and set fire to Fort Elnaz.

"The Turkish batteries replied vigorously, but without result. We also destroyed a steamer with a cargo of coal and sank two large sailing boats."

Berlin Celebrates

VIENNA, May 3.—The Austrian official statement issued today confirms the German reports of a big Austro-German victory along the entire front in West Galicia and says that 8,000 Russian prisoners were taken.

BERLIN, May 3.—The reports announcing a great victory in the Carpathians today led to the entire city of Berlin decorating itself with flags. The central telephone stations, the newspaper offices and hotels were besieged by crowds seeking details.

"The excitement began when the authorities received orders to fly the flags 'on account of a great victory in the Carpathians.'"

The details of the reported victory are not yet known here.

LADY ROUGHLY TREATED

Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly, on Her Way to Peace Conference, Robbed and Ill-Treated by Germans

LONDON, May 3.—The Daily Mail quotes Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly, American writer and social worker, and daughter of the late John Boyle O'Reilly, the Irish-American writer, as saying that she was robbed by German officials at Warnemunde while on her way from Copenhagen to The Hague to represent the Women's Peace Conference for the English-speaking peoples, and was ordered excluded from Germany.

Miss O'Reilly says that her baggage was searched at Warnemunde, and her letters of introduction, books, a piece of English gold and some Russian-made toys were confiscated.

"I then had to submit to a brutal personal search," she continued. "My dresses, and even the boots I was wearing, were ripped open, and I was ordered to return to the boat. My passport was marked 'Forbidden to enter Germany.'"

"While I was in the boat an examining officer asked me 'Do you wish the Fatherland to be victorious?' I replied, 'No.' After further questions, he said: 'The Americans are sending England the ammunition, without which the Fatherland could not beat us. Damn the Americans!'"

Miss O'Reilly says the Women's Peace Congress was packed by the Germans, who, she says, organized it.

Greek Parliament Dissolved

HOME, May 3.—The Greek Parliament was dissolved Saturday, and following the general elections on June 1 the new Parliament will open on July 15, says a dispatch from Athens. The Greek press is indignant over the refusal of the Allies to guarantee compensation to Greece on condition of her intervention on behalf of the eastern powers. Great resentment also is expressed regarding the present efforts of the Allies, which are aimed to hasten Bulgaria's intervention. It is generally considered that a declaration of war by Bulgaria against the enemies of the eastern powers is imminent.

AMERICAN BOAT IS TORPEDOED

Tank Steamer Gulfight Sunk by Submarine Without Warning Off Scilly Islands—Captain Is Dead.

PLYMOUTH, Eng., May 3.—The steamer Liverpool last night brought from the Scilly Islands to Penzance thirty-three members of the crew and the body of Captain Alfred Gunther, of the American oil tank steamer Gulfight which was torpedoed off the Scilly Islands last Saturday. The chief officer and the chief engineer remain with the vessel, which is anchored in Crew Sound, to look after the interests of the steamer's owners.

In an interview at Penzance, Second Officer Paul Bower, of the Gulfight, whose home is in Chicago, said: "When the Gulfight left Port Arthur, Texas, we were followed by a warship of some description, which kept out of sight, but in touch by wireless, and warned us not to disclose our position."

"At noon, on Saturday, we were twenty-two miles west of Scilly. The steamer was busy, but not thick about two and one-half miles ahead of us a submarine. I was on watch, and notified the captain and chief officer, who also saw the submarine. It remained on the surface for a few minutes, then disappeared."

"Twenty-five minutes later we were struck by a torpedo from the starboard side, and there was a tremendous explosion. The submarine had not reappeared on the surface before the discharging of the torpedo.

"Previous to this we had been met by two patrol boats, which accompanied us either side of the starboard side, by the explosion that her crew imagined that she also had been torpedoed. We immediately lowered the boats and were quickly taken on board the patrol boat. But the fog increased and we drifted about all night, and did not land at Scilly until 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

"At midnight on Sunday, while we were still on board the patrol boat, Captain Gunther summoned me. I found him in bed and he said he wanted someone to roll a cigarette for him. He then tossed up his arms and fainted. From then until the time of his death, which occurred about 3:30 on Sunday morning, Captain Gunther's speech was thick and indistinct, but we could distinguish that he wished someone to take care of his wife. The crew had always regarded Captain Gunther as a healthy man, and had never heard him complain."

Second Assistant Engineer Crist, of the Gulfight, said: "I was on watch in the engine-room when we were torpedoed, and so terrible was the blast that the Gulfight seemed to be tumbling in pieces. She appeared to be lifted high in the air, and then to descend rapidly. I told the boys to beat it as quickly as possible, and shut the engines down."

"Heaving the deck, I found them launching both lifeboats. We got safely into them, with the exception of Wireless Operator Short, of Chicago, and a Spanish seaman, who had dived overboard when they felt the shock, and were drowned."

The arts of weaving and rope and net making are practised by some of the lower forms of life, notably among caterpillars and spiders.

THE WAR

The Germans again attacked the line of the Allies at Hill 60, and at the village of St. Julien, in Belgium. They used poisonous gas, but were easily repulsed, with great loss.

The French appear to have got near enough to Metz to have been able to throw shells into one of the forts surrounding that city.

Petrograd claims to be holding in check the German advance in the direction of Riga, and even asserts that one of the enemy divisions is in very serious difficulty.

Not much was heard yesterday from the Dardanelles. The only report was that the town of Dardanus had been destroyed by the fleet.

STREET CAR FARES

The B. C. Electric Railway Company makes a very important announcement. Hereafter it will sell eight tickets for twenty-five cents good for a single fare over any one of its lines.

This is an arrangement that ought to commend itself to the public. It is an experiment, so far as its revenue-producing properties are concerned. We hope it will prove very successful.

How the new arrangement will be received may be an open question. The company cannot hope to escape hostile criticism. If it would give a return ticket for five cents, with an afternoon tea thrown in, there would be people who would complain that "a hot bird and a cold bottle" did not go with a green ticket.

passenger transportation, but we put it to the public that it is not desirable that a responsible company, under legal obligation to give a service under the penalty of forfeiting its franchise, should be driven out of business.

THE CANADIAN EXHIBIT

We have already printed several references to the excellence of the Canadian exhibit at the Panama Exposition, which from the day the gates were thrown open has attracted in a wonderful degree the attention and admiration of all visitors.

Citizens of the United States who go to the exposition at San Francisco will return with increased respect for Canada and the Canadian Government.

There never was seen a more complete, inspiring exhibit of the wonders of a great country.

The Canadians have gone at the thing thoroughly, they have eclipsed completely the exhibits of every one of our individual states, and that it putting it very mildly.

Every Canadian certainly should visit the Panama-Pacific Exposition, if only to confirm the opinion he probably holds that Canada is a wonderful place and its Government a magnificent and capable Government.

In addition to Canadians, representatives of every state and every county in the United States should make it a point to spend a thoughtful day in the Canada building.

They will learn there that it is possible for a people not afraid of "paternalism or Government influence" to do wonders for the building up of a country.

And they will see splendid work done by private corporations, railroads and others, under proper and efficient control by the people.

The Canada building is a magnificent, dignified structure; its employees are intelligent, courteous, well-chosen men.

Marvelously ingenious and striking exhibits tell the story of the great nation that lies north of us. Canada is an empire of strength, beauty, prosperity, and unlimited possibilities.

Intelligent citizens of this nation will rejoice in that Canadian exhibit, with its many proofs of Canadian intelligence, energy, good government and good citizenship.

GENERAL JOFFRE

The attention of the British people is very naturally chiefly directed to what our own generals and soldiers are doing in the war, and hence, while we do not lose sight of what others are accomplishing, we hardly have time to do them justice even in our own minds.

Hence to most of us General Joffre, generalissimo of the Allied armies in France, is little more than a name.

When, four years ago this soldier was placed in command of the army of the Republic, nearly all France asked: Who is Joffre? Even those who knew of him asked the question in the tone of those who wondered why he of all men should have been selected for so great a post.

There were some who recalled that he had built some military railways in French-China; others recalled that he had led a force through an almost trackless wilderness and hoisted the French colors on the walls of Ymbouctou; but why should he be chosen for such a post at such a time?

Later the truth came out and France learned that the position had been offered to General Pau, who declined it because, as he himself said and the whole Army Council concurred, "None of us should accept such a duty while Joffre is available."

Installed in his high office, Joffre began his work, quietly, resolutely and thoroughly. It is now an open secret that in 1911 the French army was little more than a political machine, honeycombed with discontent and weakened by internal rivalries.

The task of Joffre was to make it a great military machine, and it is of record that the policy which he initiated led to the extraordinary war tax which Germany a few years ago imposed upon private fortunes. Since the day he took office until war broke out Joffre worked unceasingly to prepare his country for the inevitable war. He was not quite ready when the ultimatum came from Berlin, and in addition to commanding a vast army in the field he had had to make a new army. His task seemed superhuman, but he has accomplished it. Germany had prepared herself with a striking force of 800,000 men, and against these France only had 425,000. Joffre asked the Government to require its men to serve a three-year term instead of one of two years, and this gave him enough troops, with the assistance of the British Expeditionary Force, to hold back the German tide.

What sort of a man is Joffre? We have said that he is of the bourgeoisie. He is emphatically a man of the people. This does not imply that he is in any degree a demagogue, for he is far from being that as any man could be. If he fraternizes with his men, he does it simply as a matter of course. He has little time for that sort of thing, and his preference would be to live in retirement, but when he meets a private soldier in the course of his movements he treats him not with an effusive camaraderie, but as a plain man talking to a plain man. He is intensely patriotic, not with the patriotism of the boulevards, but with that of the student, who believes in France and realizes that she may become a happy and prosperous country when lasting peace has been secured.

It is said that he has no ambitions for himself, that if he emerges from the war victorious it will not be as "a man on horseback," but as one who, having done his duty, will ask nothing better than to go home to his native village in the Eastern Pyrenees and spend his life amid rural surroundings.

He is not a man of many words, though not as taciturn as Kitchener. He talks little of his plans, which he forms with remarkable foresight. He has faith in himself, in his soldiers and in France. He has been described as "a miser of men"; that is, he will waste no lives if he can avoid it. In these qualities he resembles not the Parisians, who gained the reputation of being brilliant, opportunist, excitable, easily depressed. He represents the French of the provinces, the people who have made the existence of France as a nation possible for a thousand years.

In religion he is a Protestant; in his personal life he is exemplary. "Joffre the Monk" is what his fellow officers used to call him. He is far from being without a sense of humor, and yet he is a serious man. Apparently he has no nerves. On the eve of the Battle of the Marne, which we now know was a stupendous victory, having formed his plans for the morrow, he went to bed and slept like a child boy. Such is the man, generalissimo of more than three million men in the field, upon whom, humbly speaking, the fate of Europe depends.

GOVERNMENT'S RESPONSIBILITY

At a time when the Government has bent its energies to the task of building up an army to do service on the battlefields of Europe common patriotism should dictate that envious criticism of its actions should cease and that it should, for the time being, no longer be a target of political spleen.

Mr. Robert Rogers, in a speech at Montreal yesterday, pointed out the Prime Minister was at present bearing the heaviest responsibility that one in his position has ever been called upon to shoulder in this Dominion.

Mr. Robert Borden, by the dignity with which he has faced the crisis, has raised Canada to the highest pedestal she has ever occupied in the schemes of the Empire. In view of what has been accomplished, and in view of the plans which are afoot to give still greater assistance to the Motherland in her struggles against the forces of tyranny and injustice, it is tragic, indeed, to have to say that there has been something in the nature of a lack of co-operation on the part of the Liberal party in the Dominion.

Mr. Rogers, in the course of his speech, said that the Government has been the subject of vicious and organized attacks. No Prime Minister, he said, has ever been called upon to meet such cowardly and dishonest misrepresentations on the part of his opponents as has Sir Robert Borden. In ordinary times such attacks would pass unnoticed, for we have come to recognize them as inseparable from the campaign of abuse which since September, 1911, has been directed against the party in power.

But now, at the moment when the whole Empire is face to face with the greatest crisis in its history, the methods pursued by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his followers are, however much we might like to believe otherwise, susceptible of arousing grave suspicions as to their aim.

Mr. Rogers says that the Prime Minister has honestly and honorably discharged the greatest responsibility that has ever fallen to the lot of any public man in Canada. There is not a citizen of the country who will gainsay this. The whole Dominion has been stirred by the sense of lofty patriotism which has characterized Sir Robert Borden ever since he assumed office, and they are satisfied in the knowledge that their wishes in the present crisis are being so fully observed. The Government, before Great Britain declared war on Germany, pledged the unshakable support of the Dominion in the struggle which at the time was inevitable. This pledge has been lived up to, and will continue to be observed until the arms of Britain are triumphant. When the Government of the day, without a shadow of hesitation such an act would be the party in power at the time of the South African War, unreservedly threw the lot of the Dominion into the melting pot of the greatest war in history. Sir Robert Borden went far on the road of imperial confederation of which he has always been such an enthusiastic and loyal supporter. No doubt he will extend that the Canadian people will endorse every action of the Government taken with a view of strengthening the hands of Great Britain in the war she is waging. First of the Overseas Dominions to offer assistance to the Motherland, her share to quote Mr. Rogers "will not be finished until the last shot in the war has been fired, and until the last principle for which Great Britain and France stand has been upheld."

To carry out her part successfully imposes on the Government responsibilities such as no previous administration in this country has had to face. Here, before the war, the military preparations were on a very limited scale. A new machine had to be built up, and perfected, and there is every indication that the preparations already made will have to be exceeded before many months have passed. In the matter of creating a military organization Canada has achieved wonders, and very much of the credit belongs to Major-General Sam Hughes. The country is prepared to put forward still greater efforts, more prepared than ever today, because so many of our soldiers have fallen at the front. At a time like this when the Government is confronted with such a momentous task its actions have, unhappily, been hampered by the party which is out of power.

The manner in which this has been done is explained by the Minister of Public Works in his speech which we print today. What possible aim Sir Wilfrid Laurier, his followers and the press which supports him can have in the tactics they are pursuing is beyond our comprehension. Their attitude is unfair to the spirit of the Canadian people. The war should not be made a subject out of which the Liberal party hopes to obtain political advantages. The knowledge going abroad that the two great parties of this country are not united in the manner in which they view the situation may, conceivably, do some mischief which were better left undone. If for no other cause, then for pure shame, the Opposition should refrain from handicapping the efforts of Sir Robert Borden to meet the wishes of the people in the present emergency. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his followers surely have not forgotten how two years ago they stood in the way of the Dominion giving immediate and effective aid towards imperial defence at a time when the emergency, which has now reached its final catastrophe, had become imperative. Sir Wilfrid scoffed at the idea that any need had arisen for strengthening Britain's naval power in the main strategic theatre. The Liberal press all over the Dominion, no matter how well—or otherwise—informed on naval affairs, immediately took up the cry. The Opposition, by a policy of obstruction, delayed the bill in the House of Commons until finally closure had to be adopted. Then, when the bill reached the Senate, this body, at the behest of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, refused to pass the measure. With these recollections fresh in the minds of the people the attitude the Opposition has assumed in the present crisis is doubly regrettable. Now, if ever, is a time when the Government should have full and complete control, for upon its actions depends the manner in which the country plays its part in the war. Renewed and greater efforts to provide assistance have to be undertaken. It is imperative that Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues should be allowed to proceed with the task removed from all possibility that what they are doing will be used as a lever to create political strife and division. The bringing about of this desirable condition in our administrative life at the present time was emphasized by Mr. Rogers, and what he has advocated will be endorsed by the entire Dominion.

A correspondent thinks The Colonist ought to be careful to distinguish in its news items between Sooke settlement, Sooke Hills and Sooke Lake. We concede this without argument, and hope we shall not offend again. Certainly The Colonist has no wish to misrepresent climatic conditions in the delightful region first named.

Many readers are sending in expressions of sympathy, in prose or verse, for those who have been harassed by the war. After careful consideration, we have reached the conclusion that it is better not to print their contributions. Exceptional instances may occur when something of this kind may well be published; but our boys are engaged in a grim struggle, and while it is very natural for most of us to feel as if we would like to express what we feel as to the greatness of their sacrifices, it is better not to try to do so, for we will inevitably fall very short of our aim.

An American vessel having been sunk with some of her crew by a German submarine, it will be very interesting to watch how the incident will be dealt with at Washington. We admit that the desire of the President to keep his country strictly neutral is in the highest degree praiseworthy, and that the same, in so doing, is a difficult one. Normally, an apology and an ample indemnity would meet the requirements of such a case, but the conditions are not normal, for the sinking of this ship is in pursuance of the general policy of the German Government, and is an act which the President has already said the United States could not permit to pass without serious results.

REQUESTED DRAFT HAS BEEN CHOSEN

Officers and Men Forming Victoria's Contribution to Canadian Reinforcements Have Been Selected—Notes.

Officers and Men of the 1st C. M. R. are preparing now for their removal to the great camp at Sault Ste. Marie to join the 1st and 3rd C. M. R. in the course of a few days. Information has been received which is believed to indicate that the authorities propose transferring the Willows immediately to the 1st and 3rd C. M. R. and men of the force have been granted their discharge and will leave as infantrymen with the draft of reinforcements which the local military establishment has been asked to contribute to the Canadian base at Sault Ste. Marie, England.

List-Col. H. M. M. commanding the 1st Battalion, stated last evening that the 1st and 3rd C. M. R. were ready to leave Victoria as soon as the orders were forthcoming. The names of the officers who had volunteered and on whom the choice had fallen, Colonel H. M. M. could not be divulged until they were approved by the Department of Militia. The rank and file was made up of the best that the battalion boasted, many having seen service previously, and all having had considerable training prior to the formation of the corps with which they now are attached.

Some idea of the system introduced by the Canadian Government to facilitate the delivery of mail to the men of this country serving at the front was given yesterday by Lieut.-Col. George Ross, Chief Post Office Superintendent, who is making his regular annual Western tour. Col. Ross has charge of the postal corps, serving with the Dominion troops in France, and it is the arrangement for which he is largely responsible which assures letters, parcels, etc. addressed to Canada's men reaching them wherever they may be in the zone of military activity at the earliest possible moment.

"We have detachments with every unit," Col. Ross observed. "A letter or a package of any kind leaving Victoria for one who is serving with the colors goes first to the Army Post Office in London. Thence it is transferred to the British base office, from that point it is sent on to the particular field post office to which it is destined. From the latter the mail is collected by the postal orderly of the brigade and given the men as soon as it is convenient. If the soldiers happen to be in the trenches it is taken there at night with the food. In the way the men get news from their homes, or their friends at the earliest possible moment."

Col. Ross emphasized the statement that everything that can be done to enable those who are wearing the King's uniform getting their mail with little delay has been adopted. There was nothing that the recipients appreciated so much as a note from those they have left behind and nothing that they liked to receive more than the railings of tobacco which kind-hearted friends in such large quantities "we are just as anxious as the men," Col. Ross asserted, "to see that they get their tobacco as soon as circumstances permit."

While in Victoria the Post Office Superintendent will deal with a number of questions of local importance. One of these, namely, the extension of the carrier system, to the Esquimalt township was taken up yesterday morning. Accompanied by Reeve J. C. McAdam, Mr. H. F. Bishop, the local postmaster, and others, he made a tour of that district. He explained, however, that it was impossible to make any statement or promise as to the proposal. That was a matter which would have to be taken up with the Department in his report. Before a delivery system could be introduced it would be necessary for the Council of that municipality to make a number of changes in the names of streets and in the numbering of houses, so that the present clashing with Victoria would be overcome.

Perhaps the most urgent matter which Col. Ross has before him is the arrangement of the interior equipment and furnishing of the Victoria post office. When the staff takes possession of the large addition which has been under construction for some months there will have to be many alterations, which will involve material improvements. It is this which is engaging the attention of the visiting official. He states that Mr. G. H. Barnard, M.P., the local member, has taken a personal interest in the work of bringing the post office up to date in every particular and that, when the work of the department has decided upon in detail, Victoria will have a post office so equipped as to be capable of handling all the business of the city and district most expeditiously.

RED CROSS SOCIETY
Several Meetings Arranged in Interest of Work for the Wounded
The following meetings in connection with the Red Cross Society (Victoria and District Branch), are called for this week with the object of forming branches, or furthering the work of the Red Cross Society.
Saanich, Ward 1.—A meeting is called for tomorrow at the Mission Hall, corner of Quadra and Rock Streets at 7 p. m., with Rev. McCreger in the chair and Mr. C. G. H. in the West.
Turquoise P. O.—A meeting is called for today at 7:15 p. m., in the West Road (Saanich) Hall. At both meetings the presidents of the local branches, or officers, will be present and speak.
An invitation has been extended to Mr. Ross, Superintendent, president of the local branch, Red Cross Society, by the Rev. Dr. McLean, to speak at the Presbyterian Church, Victoria West, at 8 o'clock this evening.
Volunteers for the collection of linen are invited to attend today, and at the Alexandra Club ballroom, to assist in sorting and packing the immense donation of old linen so generously contributed by the Victoria public last Saturday. Ladies are asked to bring scissors. Over $1,000 was taken in voluntary subscriptions to help the wounded at the Red Cross headquarters yesterday.

PATRIOTIC CONCERT
Sponsored and Organized for Tobacco and Glass Exhibitions
The patriotic concert held at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Sunday evening under the auspices of those in charge of the raising of funds for the United Services Tobacco Fund, was largely attended. The 1st Regiment band was conducted by Mr. G. J. Gibson, accompanied and Messrs. H. East, H. Davis, H. C. O. Hughes and R. MacCay. The different contributions were received enthusiastically. Mrs. Macdonald's baby, substantially being covered several times, Mr. Henderson's "Red Britanna," with particularly powerful, the audience being and making thereby in the course. Mrs. Green and her party to advantage in "Humour," and responded to an incident on the program, which amounted to $200, will be divided between the Tobacco Fund and Miss Kathleen Donnelly's story which for the Canadian soldiers at the front. The members of the committee wish to express their hearty thanks to the directors of the Royal Victoria Theatre, who so kindly consented to the use of their disposal, and to Mr. C. Dehaan, manager; also to the bandmaster and members of the 5th Regiment band, to all who contributed to the programme, and to the following ladies who kindly acted as usher: Mrs. Selwyn, Misses M. Deans, Dora Dunsmuir, E. Edgerton, L. Little, M. Lomen, McManis, Mrs. E. Smith, Foulkes, V. Mason, E. Jay, G. Jay, U. Sawyer. They wish, as well, to thank Williams Brothers for providing 500 programmes free of charge; The Colonial Circulation and Printing Department for the printing of the poster cards; to George F. Hatcher, who kindly directed the people at the door, assisted by Bombardiers Beale and Roberts, all of the 5th Regiment, and all who assisted in selling programmes, the Press for advertising the concert so well, and the general public for the generous support given.

MAIL DELIVERY TO CANADIAN SOLDIERS

Lieut. Col. G. Ross, Chief P. O. Inspector, Explains System by Which Men Receive Letters and Parcels at Front.

FLOWER SHOWS
Department of Agriculture Will Give Grants to Women's Institutes Who Have Exhibitions
A large number of flower shows will be held during the year in various parts of the Province under the auspices of Women's Institutes, according to reports received by the Department of Agriculture.
The secretaries of institutes throughout British Columbia are being advised by the Deputy Minister of Agriculture that the Minister of Finance and Agriculture has sanctioned certain expenditures in connection with exhibitions to these shows given by Women's Institutes.
The assistance given by the Department may be summarized as follows: Per capita grant of 25 cents in addition to the grant made under the authority of the Agricultural Association Act, 1914, will be given to institutes holding flower shows or a combined flower show and such exhibition. Prizes will be offered for competition at such shows for collections of bulbs, correct seed, roses, dahlias and perennials, or other varieties as may be decided by the institute, the prize to consist of books awarded by the Department.

The secretaries have been asked to inform the Department of their intention with regard to the matter, and the Department of Agriculture will then be arranged.

"ROSEMARY" PROVED ATTRACTIVE PLAY

John Drew and Talented Company Presented Delightful Comedy at Royal Victoria—To Be Repeated Tonight.

An announcement of a play by Mr. John Drew and a supporting company is always regarded as a guarantee of an enjoyable evening. Mr. Drew does not attempt great productions; he does not think it necessary to involve his audience in mysteries; he does not trouble himself with intricate set problems. If he can, by presenting something simple with plenty of amusement and little touches of pathos in it, and surrounding himself with a competent plot of plays, afford an audience a very pleasant two and a half hours, he thinks he has done all that is necessary, and he is about done.

The theatre-going world has for some time been growing weary of elaborately designed plots, which portrayed human nature as it ought not to be, and happily, very rarely is, and since the war broke out in Canada at least, it has only wanted on the stage something that is clean and wholesome, something that will brighten life and enable those who witness it to forget, for a time, some of the anxiety which weighs upon us all. "Rosemary—That's for Remembrance," is such a play. It is a play of good people, some of whom are eccentric, but in whose hearts there is plenty of true gold. It is a play of by-gone days, of a picturesque period in English life, at least it seems picturesque to us, but was doubtless commonplace enough to those who lived then. It is a play of simple-hearted people, and the fact that it appeals to audiences shows that we are all a great deal more simple-hearted than we think we are. It gives the audience at the Royal Victoria last night a great deal of pleasure, which was freely acknowledged.

It is hardly necessary to tell the people of Victoria what sort of an actor Mr. Drew is. All who go much to plays know his little mannerisms, which are amusing in themselves and admirably set off the qualities of those who are associated with him. He is not a star who wants the centre of the stage always, or fears to let his support appear at its best lest it mar detract from his work. He is too sure of himself for that, and rightly so. He is admirably assisted in this play, Mr. Herbert Bruce's Professor Program is a well-sustained piece of acting, as also is Mr. Harry Harwood's Captain Cruickshank. The latter is as good a retired marine of the stage type as one need care to see. Thomas Whittefin makes an admirable wife for a choleric old sea dog. The part of Miss Dorothy Cruickshank is entrusted to Miss Alexandra Carlisle, a lady who has not previously appeared to a Victoria audience until last night, but who will always be welcome here. Her role is that of a loyal-hearted young girl, and she handles it with great ability until the movement of the play calls for a different, but just equally lovable, character. Her speaking voice is very clear and sweet, the distinctness of her enunciation being refreshing in these days when so many players seem to forget that there is such a thing as elocution. The minor parts were excellently filled.

The play calls for picturesque settings and pleasing costumes, and it is hardly necessary to add that Mr. Drew has the leading role in it certain to be surrounded with these "Rosemary" will be repeated tonight, and those who wish an evening of refined amusement with plenty of good thoughts well presented, would be wise to attend.

WATER WORKS COMPLETION
Water Commissioner Says May 15 as Date on Which Best Work Will Be Done
The completion of the Sooke Lake water works system by May 15 was promised by Water Commissioner Rust in his progress report for April, submitted to the City Council last evening. The manufacture of the concrete pipe for the Pacific Loop Joint Pipe Co. was completed on April 15, but owing to an under-estimate made by the contractor of the amount of pipe required and an increase in the number of culs, it was necessary for the contractors to manufacture 480 feet more pipe. The laying of the pipe was completed between Cooper's Cove and Sooke Lake on April 15, and at the end of that month there was only 4180 feet more pipe to lay, a work which will be completed in eight days.

The jointing and pipe-cleaning gangs are keeping very close to the laying gang, and are now engaged in repairing the broken joints in the deep cut at the school house. This pipe was found in much better condition than expected. Various syphons have been tested and, with the exception of one, wherein a few bad leaks occurred, were in good shape and what leaks developed were easily repaired.

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL OF MRS. OPPENHEIMER
Many Friends Attended Obsequies of Esteemed Lady—Burial at Jewish Cemetery
The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon of the late Mrs. Florence Oppenheimer, whose death occurred suddenly last week at San Francisco. A large attendance was present at the ceremony. The cortege proceeded from the residence of her father, Mr. Simon Lowry, 1048 St. Charles Street, to the Jewish Cemetery, where the burial services were conducted by Rev. H. J. Britton. Many flowers covered the casket and the hearse.

Those who acted as pallbearers were Messrs. O. Pearson, F. Langberg, C. F. Gardner, H. Macklin, Roy McInnes, of Victoria, and A. E. Hines, of Vancouver.

OBITUARY NOTICES
The funeral of John Andrew Deane, whose death occurred on the 25th ult., took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from his parents' residence, 434 John Street. There was a large attendance of friends and many beautiful flowers covered the little casket. The Rev. Dr. Ross officiated, and the

In Women's Realm

BY MARIA LAWSON

MISS ELIZABETH ASQUITH.

Statement
 "Put up the sword," the voice of Christ once more
 Speaks in the pauses of the cannon's roar,
 O'er fields of corn by fiery sickles reaped
 And left dry ashes; o'er trenches heaped
 With nameless dead; o'er cities starving slow
 Under a rain of fire; through wards of woe,
 Down which a groaning diaphan runs
 From tortured brothers, husbands, lovers, sons,
 Of desolate women in the far-off homes,
 Waiting to hear the step that never comes!

O, men and brothers! Let that voice be heard,
 War falls, try peace; put up the useless sword!
 Fear not the end. There is a story told
 In Eastern lands, when Autumn nights grow cold,
 And round the fire the Mongol shepherds sit
 With grave responses listening unto it:
 Once, on the errands of his mercy bent,
 Buddha, the holy and benevolent,
 Met a fell monster, huge and fierce of look,
 Whose awful voice the hills and forests shook.

"O, son of peace!" the giant cried, "thy fate
 Is sealed at last, and love shall yield to hate."
 The unarmed Buddha looking, with no trace
 Of fear or anger, in the monster's face,
 In pity cried: "Poor friend, even thou
 I love."
 Lo, as he spoke, the sky-tall terror sank
 To hand-breadth aisk; the huge abhorrence shrank
 Into the form and fashion of a dove;
 And where the thunder of its rage was heard,
 Circling above him sweetly sang the bird:
 "Hate hath no harm for love," so ran the song;
 And peace unopposed conquers every wrong.
 —John Greenleaf Whittier.

A Tolsoned Girl
 While Premier Asquith carries the heaviest burden that ever fell to the lot of a British Premier, his wife and daughters are doing their part to lighten in some degree the load. Mrs. Asquith, since the beginning of the war, has been a co-worker with Queen Mary in preventing unemployment among women.

The Clean-Up Campaign
 It is very satisfactory to learn that an organized effort is to be made to put Victoria in order this Spring. There is much to be done in a public way. It is only by organization that empty lots and neglected corners can be made tidy and, perhaps, beautiful.

Please Help
 A few evenings since a young widow, who is in very straitened circumstances, entrusted her sister with a sum of money to pay a hospital bill. On the bill was her name and address in full. The amount was due for an operation for her little son, which would enable him to attend school. The little parcel was dropped and the finder has not returned it. The amount, $7.50, was not large, but it will be a hardship to replace. If the finder should see these lines, he or she should return the money to one who needs it very much indeed. To rob the widow and the fatherless is a crime few would be guilty of knowingly.

Preserving Berries
 Victoria housekeepers are asked not to buy berries to preserve from outside sources. Is it certain that there will be enough local berries to supply the home market or that, if there is, they will not be sent abroad? Now that we are to have a market twice a week there will be plenty of opportunity for growers to bring in their berries. It should be possible to find out what the prospects are in time for the women who buy berries in large quantities to decide what they ought to do. As everyone knows Victoria strawberries are as fine or finer than any. On the other hand, consumers have a right to reasonable prices, and if imported berries are much cheaper than those grown here it is hardly fair to expect them to make a sacrifice for the sake of the growers. This is a case in which intelligent co-operation should be used.

Princess Mary

even time and time allows to loving friends and relatives in families throughout the Empire. If, at this distance, we may judge, this English Princess has grown up to be a maiden of whom British people everywhere may well be proud. Since the war broke out Princess Mary has used all the influence which her personality and her high station give her in aid of the men at the front.

The times have released her from the schoolroom corner than would otherwise have been the case but, on the other hand, she has been very busy with womanly tasks for the benefit of the soldiers and the hospitals. The Princess Mary has been brought up to be useful. Neither her father, who is said to adore her, nor her mother, consider that life in a palace should be idle and luxurious. In no republic in the world are the children of the chief executive brought up more strictly nor more carefully educated than are the sons and only daughter of the British Royal Family. That in the years to come the princess may have many happier birthdays than the last one has been will be the wish of many women throughout the Empire.

The United Service Club
 The club which the Daughters of Empire were successful in establishing for the military and naval men stationed in Victoria should not be allowed to go down for want of support. It was an honest effort to meet the needs of the men who are in the city, what was believed to be a need—a place where men, when in the city, could meet for recreation and mutual intercourse.

The Daughters of Empire felt that Victoria owed the men such hospitality as the club affords. Those who already belong to clubs or have their homes in the city may be independent, but strangers have shown that they appreciate the opportunity afforded them of writing letters, reading, talking or amusing themselves while spending their hours of leave in the city.

While we are doing what we can for the men at the front or in the hospitals, we should not neglect those who must go in the near future. To do even a little to brighten the tedious time of waiting for some of these war, the Daughters of Empire believed, worth while. Such clubs in various parts of the Empire have been well supported and even though there are many calls upon the loyalty of the people of Victoria this one should not be neglected. Those who are living here in peace and prosperity should not grudge anything that will add to the comfort and pleasure of those who are so soon to risk their lives at the call of the Empire.

A. E. STODDART HAS JOINED MAJORITY Great Cricket and Rugby International Dies by His Own Hand Through Nervous Breakdown—Unique Record

The English papers received by the last mail contain the account of the suicide of Mr. A. E. Stoddart, one of the best known athletes of the Empire. Stoddart's name will always live as one of the really great players of cricket and Rugby football—the only man who has captained England both in a Test Match and a "Rugger" International. Born at South Shields in 1882, he was in his prime as a cricketer in a great heyday of cricket popularity—the late 'eighties and early 'nineties. Middlesex, the Gentlemen and England—he did great work for all. It was as a batsman that he was most famous, and a beautiful bat he was, scoring fast in the old-fashioned attacking style, with all the shots, drive, cut and glance, and yet with quite a sound defence. He could hit balls of all paces and all lengths, and he dearly loved a duel with a fast bowler.

In Australia his name was a household word, and his happiest recollections were of his Australian trips. He paid four visits to Australia—in 1887, 1888, 1894 and 1897—on the two last occasions taking out his own team. He was a batsman, and a well-known professional once said to him: "Mr. Stoddart, if you had been a professional you would have been a great bowler." But he was a much better bowler than many people imagined. In 1895—his last full season in county cricket—his batting average was 52.
